Alan Couch delivers a load of guests to Camp Baldy.

Uplander recalls Baldy's heyday as tourist haven

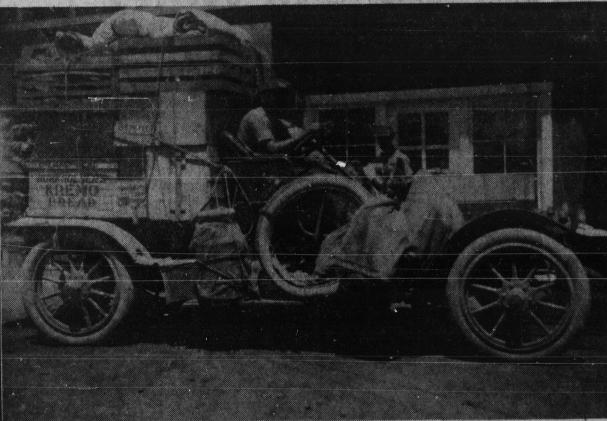

By DINAH ROSE Staff Writer

At 85, Upland resident Alan Couch shares a minor roblem with many other older men — a balding pate.

But to Couch, it's almost a mark of pride. He laughingly credits his nearly hairless head to a 7year period beginning in 1913 when he braved both snow and blazing sun to drive carloads of tourists, mail and supplies up the mountain during the heyday of Camp

Couch drove a cumbersome vehicle that could be converted to carry rows of passengers, or boxes of freight. It lacked a few of the conveniences of modernday autos, like a roof or a windshield, but was one of the few of its day that could make the steep climb up the Delivering a load of groceries to the camp at Mt. Baldy.

Alan Couch and his wife Lula reminisce about his days as a driver of the bus that carried vacation-

"Baldy attracted people from all over," recalled Couch. "It was a 7-hour drive up to Big Bear, so Baldy was a favorite with locals who didn't want to go too far.

"And we also got people from as far away as New York who wanted to beat the heat during the summer."

Camp Baldy was reached via a dirt toll road. During the peak season, as many as 600 vacationers gathered to relax in the mountain breezes

A hotel staffed mainly by students from the nearby Pomona College housed some, while cottages and tent cabins served the more adventurous There were all, or at least many, of the comforts of home. Flumes filled with fresh cool water snaked through the grounds to provide refrigeration, and women were casual dresses while they cooked on outdoor stoves. In addition to fishing, hiking and the pool and box ball games available to visitors, there were daily pack trips to the top of Mt. Baldy, and nightly (save for Sunday, of

Couch was 16, just out of Chaffey High School, when he first landed the job.

He got a special chauffeur's license and began daily trips leaving at 7 a.m. in the converted 1909 Buick.

For the first trip of the day, Couch picked up the Camp

Baldy mail sack, perhaps a couple of crates of chickens for the hotel dinner, and other supplies. Passengers hopped on at the end of the Pacific Electric train line, at 25th Street and Mountain Avenue, if there was still room. Barring any problems, the round trip could be completed in five or six hours. The unexpected, however, could always be expected. Even in the best of conditions, he generally had to stop twice to ladie water over the steaming radiator. Flat tires were commonplace, and Couch remembers one fateful trip when he had to pull off and patch not one or two, but three tires. The mountains were home for a multitude of creatures, including a large population of rattlesnakes.

The Chinese cook at Camp Baldy asked Couch to catch a couple whenever possible, to use in a variety of concoctions and poultices.

The cook became a legend in his own right. Stories were told of his ire at diners who sent back a steak to be

He reportedly would toss the offending meat on the floor and stomp on it before returning it to the grill. The guests apparently would never know the difference. In his seven years of driving, Couch remembers only one accident on the twisting mountain road.

He was rolling back down the hill after delivering a ioad, and met a horse and buggy working its way up. He slowed, but the horse spooked at the monstrous machine, and bolted. Couch's truck took off the side lamp on the buggy, but no injuries were involved.

During the summer, he made as many trips up the hill as the tourist trade - and time - allowed. But over the winter, the trek was cut to once a week - on Saturdays

- to carry mail up to the few residents still in the camp. There were no snowplows in those days, and sometimes Couch had to walk part of the route to ensure the mail got through.

Five years after he started driving, the transportation lines came up for sale. At 21, Couch entered his first ss venture and became owner of the San Antonio Transfer Company.

He kept the business for two summers and increased the fleet's size from two vehicles to five.

One of his favorites was a rebuilt army truck, used originally in World War I. The previous owner tried to drive the vehicle across Big Bear Lake in the winter, but the ice couldn't bear the weight. The truck was considered lost.

Couch salvaged the vehicle, had the body rebuilt in an Ontario shop, installed seats, and the truck was drafted

Finally, he got his fill of the monotony of trip after trip, and sold the lines. Two years later he was to start a Chevrolet dealership that he would run continuously for the next 39 years, but his days as a driver were over.

The days of Camp Baldy were numbered as well. The area continued to gain in popularity, but nearly all the buildings were completely wiped out in the disasterous

Couch, now 85, still remembers those early days with deep fondness. He has kept dozens of pictures showing life up on the hill, including one of the wooden-floored tent cabins he lived in for a while.

'That old truck broke down so often it's not even worth talking about," said Couch, shaking his head, "and things were a little rougher than they are now.

"Still, Camp Baldy was a wonderful place that drew people from all over. There just isn't anything like it

At the Dental Center, 901 patients were scheduled for treatment this ast year during 115 clinics that ere staffed by volunteers from the ri-County Dental Hygienists ociety and the West End Dental ociety, reported Mrs. Edward irard, Dental Center chairman. reatment ranged from usual dental and cleaning services to root canal herapy. In addition, the children and their parents received instruction in brushing, flossing and nutrition from league volunteers. Angi Burns, dental assistant, is the only salaried employee at the clinic.

"In order to determine financial ligibility for the program, eight creening sessions were held, processing 348 children and ualifying 239 patients from 154 families," Mrs. Girard said. "School personnel assisted in Tocating the needy children, language interpretation and transportation as well as the yearlong Phase I program where 42 school emergency patients were diverted to the offices of 15 dentists."

Under Phase III of the Dental Center program, extended treatment was given to 23 children for a cost of $1,000. This service is offered in the offices of oral surgeons, periodontists, endodontists and orthodontists at little or no cost.

In addition to the $3,700 donated by the league to the Dental Center, funds also came from the $1.50 fee per patient, local service club donations and PTA support.

The Dental Center also receives funds from the West End United Way.

Approximately 40 young girls participated in the afternoon programs offered throughout the school year at the Girls Club in Cucamonga. Monday and Wednesday sessions were held for third, fourth and fifth graders and Tuesday and Thursday sessions for the sixth, seventh and eighth graders, according to Mrs. Ron Chrisman, Girls Club chairman.

When the club opened last fall, the girls became involved in learning crafts, games and cooking under the direction of Mrs. Arnold Ramirez, the new paid coordinator. League members assist in all Girls Club projects. Parties are held throughout the year such as at Halloween, Christmas, Valentine's Day and Mother's Day, where the girls entertain their mothers.

Sewing was a popular project this past year with the Girls Club members making cotton skirts and pillows. During the winter holidays, the girls learned rounds and songs and went Christmas caroling at two convalescent homes. They also planted spring flowers in the patio area between the Girls Club and League Center.

The Girls Club is supported by the league, which donated $12,500 this past year; West End United Way, giving $65; and the Price Foundation, which donated $340 toward the campership program.

During the four sessions of the SAT preparatory courses, 233 students from area high schools and two from Chaffey College were prepared for the SATs which are

Add $1.6 million Supervisors adopt $475 million budget

With little more than loose change left over, the county Board of Supervisors sifted through a variety of spending requests last week and adopted a $475 million budget for countywide programs.

Supervisors wrapped up work on. the budget for fiscal 1981-82 by adding $1,604,908 to departments and projects. Negotiations among the five board members featured "deals" jokingly offered and more serious plugging for requests in their districts or reflecting their interests.

When the calculations were complete, County Administrative Officer Robert Rigney said the county's already meager contingency fund had dwindled to about $500.

However, Auditor-Controller Errol Mackzum pointed out that unlike some cities the county has not targeted a certain percentage of its budget for unexpected contingencies in the past. He added that since passage of Proposition 13 in 1978 the county has not started a budget year with any significant contingency amount.

Large-scale changes in spending plans have meant midyear shifts in budget allocations. Through cutbacks, the county wiped out a projected $2 million deficit at the end of fiscal 1980-81. Changes in the last budget were prompted in large part by the repeal of $15 million in flood-control assessments.

Funds for countywide programs increased about 10 percent over the 1980-81 budget, with the total coming to $475,259,168 for this year.

In August, the board is scheduled to consider budgets for special districts under its control. The proposed $61.5 million for special districts and $27.8 million for construction projects adopted Tuesday brings total planned spending for 1981-82 to more than $564 million, an 11 percent increase over what was adopted for 1980-81.

Faced with requests for several times the $1,383,452 the county had not yet allocated, the board went through the requests one by one on Tuesday, following Rigney's recommendations and making some changes of its own.

The board allocated $1,604,908, but balanced the budget by taking more than $221,000 from the fund for the West Valley Law and Justice Center. That reduction will be made up by a higher amount in the bond issue to finance construction of the facility planned in Rancho Cucamonga.

On Monday, the board heard advocates of mental-health programs urge the county not to seek a state waiver allowing the county to drop its $709,000 share of funding for mental-health programs.

As part of its budget action, the state Legislature restored a requirement that counties pay for 10 percent of the programs falling under the Short-Doyle Act.

The board cited limitations in the total county funds available and will seek a waiver from funding the full 10 percent match.

However, the board allocated $136,725 to finance 6 percent cost-ofliving increases for programs run by agencies under contract with the county Mental Health Department. Most of the mental-health cuts came from within the department.

Supervisors had earlier received requests for additional funding to the Sheriff's Department of more than $3 million.

On Tuesday, the board allocated

Grant makes two special opera productions for youth possible

Opera productions of "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdink for the opera education of young audiences are being planned by the West End Opera Association for the Christmas season.

The presentations will be made possible through a special grant of $2,953 from the Inland Empire Cultural Foundation. There will be two performances in Gardiner Spring Auditorium, and there will not be an admission charge.

dates have been set for the opera The foundation, also known as CLASS (Cultural League Advocating Support of the Arts in ociety), had already allocated $4,000 for the West End Opera's 1980-81 season and has allocated another $4,000 for the 1981-82 season. The fall opera will be "Madame Butterfly" but the spring opera has yet to be selected.

What the CLASS grant makes possible for the first time is the means to tour a full opera to school districts elsewhere in the Inland Empire," Maurice Goodban, foundation treasurer, said.

Goodban also is a member of the ad hoc committee which determined how grants for the Contingency Allocations Reserve would be awarded. Other members include: Dr. Larry Burgess, secretary; Mrs. Ted Dutton, vice president for member relations; and Bart Singletary, executive committee member from

'How many of us adults can say we actually experienced the joy of seeing grand opera in public schools?" Goodban asked.

He also announed that a second grant from CLASS has been awarded to the Redlands Winter Concert

Association to help the association in its efforts to get stellar programs which will attract the broadest-based audience possible without making subscriptions and tickets prohibitively high. The grant comes to $2,500 and will help offset the associations's most costly attraction, the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, on May 8, 1982.

There have been 20 performing and visual arts organizations allocated grants totaling more than $236,000 from CLASS, which is a voluntary, non-profit citizens' corporation which helps support art, music, dance and drama in the Inland Empire.

Others in the West End to receive grants are the Chaffey Community Art Association, Fontana Mummers (theater group). Museum of History and Art, Ontario, Pomona Valley Community Concert Association and the West End Symphony.

The overall 1981 fund drive, now in progress, has a goal of $300,000. The volunteer committee in the West End responsible for soliciting contributions to CLASS has Ted Dutton as chairman, Ontario, assisted by: Don Crawford, Montclair; Joseph N. Dilorio, Rancho Cucamonga; Dr. William Domb, Upland; Berger Nielsen, Ontario; and Tammy Wolfinbarger, Fontana.

Grant will explore trash recycling

A grant totalling $51,996 from California's Solid Waste Management Board will be used to investigate a trash recycling project in the Chino Hills area, according to local legislators.

Sen. Ruben Ayala and Assemblymen Terry Goggin said last week that the San Bernardino County's Department of Environmental Health Services will combine the results of that study with the larger Chino Hills community design project.

A rodeo is set for two performances at the 34th annual San Bernardino County Fair in Victorville Aug. 18 to 23. Professional cowboys from all over the U.S. will compete beginning at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 21 and 22 for prize

The Growney Brothers Rodeo Co. of Red Bluff will handle this year's rodeo.

More than 200 animals will be on hand to give the cowboys a rough time. John Growney, of the Growney Brothers firm, has assured fair officials that some of his meanest animals will contend with the cowboys. Three of his bucking broncos, he says, will go to Victorville after challenging cowboys at the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Local cowboys and cowgirls can sign up for the rodeo events as well Entries will be taken until 9:30 a.m. Aug.

Landscaping program

Members of economically disadvantaged families in the West End are eligible to participate in a park maintenance and landscaping training program.

The Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program involes both classroom and on-the-job experience. Participants receive $3.35 per hour for a 40-

Applications are being taken Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the West End Multi-Service Center, 316 W. B St., Ontario or at 214-D N. Palm Ave.,

Those seeking more information may call 983-0775 or 874-4290.

Teacher seminar set

Language arts Professor Gail Theurer has been selected by the Chaffey College Faculty Senate to attend this year's "California Great Teacher Seminar" designed to promote community college staff development.

The seminar will be conducted Aug. 9-14 in Santa

"The most educational part of these types of trips," said Thurer, an English-German teacher, "is meeting and exchanging ideas with other teachers.'

Theurer said she likes to travel each year to keep her "ideas and perspectives of education" current. Last year she went to Germany as a guest of the West German government, enabling her to improve her German language skills and to study the culture.

Competitors needed for fair

Upside-down cake bakers, wood carvers, barbecuers, crocheters, and Christmas tree decorators have until Saturday to file entry blanks for competition in the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, Sept. 10 to 27.

Hog callers, banjo pickers, singers, dancers, twins, look-alikes, instrumentalists, and bands have until Aug. 15 to get involved at the fair. The first step is to obtain an entry blank and return in by the cut-off date.

Blanks are available by calling the fair office at 623-

Would you like to see all aspects of the upcoming Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, Sept. 10-27, and yet Vicki Carr, the fair's special events coordinator, is seeking four young people between the ages of 18 through 22 to fill three costume character outfits. Background or experience in dance or drama is required, Carr said. The costume characters (one of them being Thummer, the fair's mascot) appear in parades, at parties, contests and at times on television. They are great favorites among young children attending the fair, said Carr.

"Although being a costume character is demanding work, it's also rewarding work because of the appeal to children," added Carr.

Interviews will be conducted through Aug. 14. Call the fair's special events department for an appointment at 623-3111, extension 244, or write Box 2250, Pomona, Calif.

mimes and vocalists are encouraged to showcase their talent at the fair this year on the outdoor pavilion. Many time slots are available during the fair, which is scheduled Aug. 18-23. Deadline to enter an act is Aug. 11. On opening night, Tuesday Aug. 18, county music's group of the year, Alabama, will perform two shows at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. There will be a giant fireworks display after the final show at 9:30.

Homes for students sought

More than 1,200 students who have applied for space in Cal Poly Pomona's residence halls for the 1981-82 academic year cannot be accommodated in the university's system, university officials say

Darlene Stevenson, coordinator of residence life, says students are in need of safe, pleasant accommodations so that they may begin their college careers. The community can help, she says, by making rental housing available to the students.

More information for those with space to rent is available by calling the Cal Poly housing office at 598-4287 between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through

Night swimming introduced

There's night swimming at the DeAnza Park Community Center in Ontario.

Ontario Recreation Department officials said the community center pool is now open on Thursdays from from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

This special weekly session is for adults only. No one under 15 of age is allowed.

The standard 50-cent swimming fee will be charged. More information can be obtained by calling the recreation department at 983-3314.

Camp space available

Space is still available in Rancho Cucamonga's summer camp program, Community Services Department officials said.

The camp is open for children six to 11 years old. "Camp Cucamonga" is held Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Activites include a field trip each Thursday. Each child is given a T-shirt.

Fee for the program is $15 per week. A child may be registered one week at a time or for all the remaining

Registrations are taken at Rancho Cucamonga City Hall, 9320 Base Line Road, suite C. Those seeking additional information may call the Community Services Department at 989-1851, extension

Bus trips to Guasti

Weekly fishing and swimming trips to Guasti Regional Park for children 8 to 12 years old are being sponsored by the Rancho Cucamonga Community Services Department.

The children are taken by bus to Guasti Park from the Lions Park Community Center, 9161 Base Line Road, at 8:45 a.m. They return by bus to the center at 3:30 p.m. Trips are held each Friday.

There is a fee for the activity and anyone interested must register in advance. For additional information call the community center at 980-3145.

Registration is being taken for the Ontario Recreation Department's Aug. 24-28 tour of the Mother Lode country of California Tour of the legendary gold fields will be by air-conditioned bus. The five-day tour requires a fee that includes overnight lodging in Sonora, a tour of gold mine sights including Angel's Camp and Sutter's Creek, two nights at the MGM Grand Hotel in Reno, stops in Carson City and Lake Tahoe and overnight lodging at Mammoth Lakes.

San Dimas Press; LaVerne Leader; The Bulletin; Upland News; Rancho Cucamenga Times; Montclair Tribune While at Mammoth, tour members may also participate in a tour of the lakes and a bingo party. Reservations can be made, and more information obtained, by calling the recreation department at 988-

British Isles tour

England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales will be the destinations for an Ontario Recreation Department tour in October.

Recreation officials are taking registration now for the 15-day, fully escorted tour Oct. 4-18. The trip includes all air transportation, accommodations, sightseeing and most breakfasts and dinners.

There is a fee charged for the trip. More information can be obtained, or reservations made, by telephoning the department at 988-9841. Department officials also have a color brochure on the trip available.

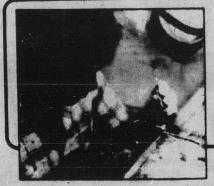

Central Valley Mental Health Association will present a program on stress management five Wed mornings from 8:30 - 11:30 a.m. beginning Aug. 19. It will meet at the First Congregational Church of Rialto, 625 N Eucalyptus. Registration fee is $25 ($20 for Mental Health Association Members) which includes a manual and all expenses.

Stress management

The leader of the program is Allan Comeau, Ph.D., staff training coordinator for the San Bernardino Countying Department of Mental Health. Comeau has developedit this particular program and the manual that will be used after considerable study in the field.

mona valuations climb by 22.1%

Pomona's 1981 assessed valuation is 22.1 percent above 1980 and 9.6 percent higher than the 12.5 percent countywide average increase.

According to county Assessor Alexander H. Pope, holdings in the city now are valued at $1,488,-515,762. This is $269,917,466 more than the 1980 figure of $1,218,598,-

Pomona showed a 5 percent larger increase in assessed valuations than any of the other valley communities shown in Pope's re-

In a partial breakdown of residential property valuation, Pope said Pomona was down 29 percent in the number of change of ownership reappraisals, 1,515 in 1980 compared to 1,261 in 1981. However, he continued, the average value per unit is up 13 percent, from $51,000 in 1980 to $57,500 in 1981.

Countywide, this figure is down 22 percent in the number of change of ownership reappraisals, from 144,954 in 1980 to 113,369 in 1981. But the cost per unit increased 20 percent during the year, from $92,000 to $110,000 this Pope's figures are included in an almost $183 billion 1981 assessment roll for the county which, he said, is up $20 billion from last year - amounting to the 12.5 percent.

San Dimas shows a 17.1 percent increase over 1980, up to $595,488,-562 from 1980's $508,442,4766.

Claremont's assessed valuation increased 14.1 percent, up to $590,-535,302 from $517,458,204 in 1980. Walnut's assessed valuation rose 13.7 percent, up to $298,272,-883 from $262,404,964 in 1980. La Verne recorded a 12.2 percent increase, up to $521,700,339 from $464,949,732 in 1980.

La Puente's assessed valuation rose 10.4 percent, up to $314,993,- 392 from $285,386,064 in 1980.

For the first time, the roll includes a single property valued at more than $1 billion. Operated by THUMS (a consortium of Texaco, Humble, Union, Mobil and Shell Oil companies), this property sets under water in Long Beach Harbor. It includes oil reserves with a roll value of more than $1.1 billion

As a matter of historical interest, the whole roll, including all of Los Angeles County, was first assessed at more than $1 billion in 1920

The total 1981-82 roll breaks down as follows: land - $70.9 billion; improvements (including fixtures) — $101.6 billion; and personal property — $10.5 billion.

Of the $20 billion added to the roll' this year, change in ownership and new construction account for 57 percent of the increase. In addition, the 2 percent inflationary factor accounted for $2.9 billion of the increase (14 percent) and personal property (including fixtures) accounted for $2.2 billion

In 1980, Pope said, residential property accounted for 62.7 percent of the roll and commercialindustrial for 37.3 percent. In 1981, the shift has continued to residential. Homes and apartments have risen to 63.2 percent of the roll and the commercial-industrial share has dropped to 36.8 percent.

"The primary reason for this continued shift," said Pope, "is that single family homes tend to be bought and sold relatively frequently while business properties change hands less often and, therefore, get reappraised less often."

Most dairymen oppose breakup of preserve

Staff Writer

Two out of three dairymen in the Chino Valley oppose the breakup of the 17,000-acre agricultural preserve located south of Riverside Drive and east of Euclid Avenue, according to a new poll sponsored by the San Bernar-dino County Board of Supervisors. The local dairy industry has 296 dairies - most of them within the preserve - with 165,000 cows and an annual production valued at $320 million. It is the largest dairy concentration in the world.

The preserve itself was formed eight years ago by the state at the request of the county supervisors to protect agricultural land from encroachment by developers.

County officials began the poll six months ago to study reports that a large group of dairymen, perhaps even the majority, wanted to move from the preserve.

Results of that survey are being compiled by the county Planning Department and will be released Aug. 19 to a countywide Dairy Advisory Committee meeting in San Bernardino, according to Marvin Krieger, senior county

The preliminary figures within the survey were first disclosed by Planning Director Ken Topping before a citizens' advisory council last Monday.

He had said that "despite local scuttlebutt, 66 percent of the dai-rymen don't want to move their operations from the Chino Val-

Krieger verified that report and said the other 34 percent either want to move or declined to answer the question on the survey.

The study was sparked by county Supervisor Robert Townsend last year after persistent reports that many dairymen were frustrated because they were restricted from selling their property to land developers who reportedly were offering them $40,000 to $50,-000 an acre.

Krieger said 63.5 percent of the 270 dairy owners and operators within the preserve responded to the questionnaire. He described that as "a pretty good return."

Actually, on a yes-no basis the dairymen's preference for staying was more pronounced.

While 66 percent felt the preserve that protects the dairy industry should not be eliminated, only 25 percent said it should be discontinued. Nineteen percent either was uncertain or did not care, the county planner said.

An even stronger argument for staving in the preserve was advanced by another aspect of the survey. Of those who wanted to move, 41 percent said they preferred the high desert, 38 percent wanted to re-establish dairies in the Hemet-San Jacinto area of Riverside County, and 15 percent wanted to move to the Tulare area of the San Joaquin Valley.

However, Krieger pointed out that the Hemet area already was overloaded with dairies, and going to Tulare and away from the Southland market would be economically unfeasible.

Thus the choice of those who wanted to leave the preserve became even more limited than earlier anticipated, according to the county planner.

Another portion of the survey indicated that nearly six out of 10 dairymen want to remain unincorporated, while three out of 10 wanted to join either Chino or Ontario. Two out of 10 wanted to form a new city.

Townsend said he was "gratified" with the results of the survey and pledged his continued cooperation toward making the preserve an attractive home for

He estimated the dairy industry provides 6,000 jobs for the community "and that is something worth protecting.'

"The two major problems of the industry have been water runoff and dairies that are too small to operate profitably," he declared. We are working on those problems right now, and I hope that within 30 to 45 days we will have something to announce."

The chart tells the story. As the day grows hotter, appliances and particularly air conditioners go on in homes and offices and factories. This summer the electric load will soar, far beyond the regular load supplying your homes and businesses in cooler periods. You can help lighten this load, put off building costly new generating plants and help keep electric bills down by not using your major home appliances during afternoon hours, when demand peaks. So please, give your appliances the afternoon off. increased use of air conditioners in hot weather, causes demand for electricity to increase dramatically.

Australian specializes in pageant presentations

By KAREN GRAVES Staff Intern

From Australia to the United States comes a woman in search of relatives and a recipient for a script of an art form not well known in the United States, a Mina Shelley of Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, is the first cousin of Dudley Shelley of Pomona and Australia's only pageant mistress.

A pageant is "a story of a place or an organization and it is largely amateur," said Miss Shelley. "You select the people according to their stature and their resemblance to people of the past.

"There are no stars," said Miss Shelley. "They all contribute like a mosaic. Hidden in the heart of everyone is a desire to be an actor or an actress.

"You try to engender in them a sense of pride in what you're doing," she said.

Pageants are often used to raise money for charity. "If you have amateurs, you can rely on at least one person bringing 10 people in,"

Miss Shelley has always known of her American relatives because her mother corresponded with her brother in the United States regularly, Miss Shelley always thought, "If I ever come here, I'll try and find them." She has been staying with her cousin and his wife in Pomona.

She will also stay with Ellyn

Second Christmas fair plans begin

Christmas in July? Not really. But Chino's Department of Parks and Recreation along with the Chamber of Commerce are gearing up for the Second Annual Spirit of Christmas International Fair with the first committee meeting set for Monday, 6 p.m. at Chino City Hall.

The committee is looking for new members who would like to get involved with the planning of this year's holiday event.

If you would like more information, call the Parks and Recreation Department at 627-7344.

Shelley, a second cousin in Pasa-

When Miss Shelley visited the USA Chamber of Commerce in Brisbane, they told her how to find her relatives once she reached the United States.

Her family is from Horsham, Sussex, England, and has lived there since the days of Queen Elizabeth. Her great-great-grandfather was the brother of the poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Her father was also a pageant master and her mother was an artist and theatrical dress designer. Her husband was a company managing director for Samuel French, Charles Vincent Bailey. He died 10 years ago.

Miss Shelley has been in the United States since April. She is amazed at how you can call the operator in any city in America and find out if someone is still living at the address you have for Next she plans to visit a friend in Sarasota, Fla. She will travel there by bus. "I'm so used to hopping from state to state that it doesn't worry me,"she said.

She also hopes to visit her cousin, Alma Powers Waters, an author who lives in Washington.

One of the pageants Miss Shelley produced while in Australia was "Man of Fire," a historical pageant on the life and work of John Wesley, by the Rev. E.C. Pallot.

This pageant was produced for the Methodist Young People's An-nual Conference, held in the Melbourne Town Hall.

Miss Shelley has brought the original manuscript for the pag-eant with her to the United States and is interested in the possibility of bequeathing it to the United Methodist Church in the United States. "It would be a nice gesture to pass it over to them," said Miss Shelley.
She met the Queen of England in Brisbane in 1970 during the Australian bicentennial celebration. During this celebration she was an artistic coordinator for the pageant "Our First Two Hundred Years," a pageant on the history of women in Australia. "She's so easy to talk to," Miss Shelley said of the queen. "But you have to know what the protocol is.

Sheriff's deputies salary measure formally put on November ballot

Despite legal questions, the county Board of Supervisors on Tuesday formally placed a measure of the November ballot to tie future salary increases for sheriff's deputies to the consumer price

Members of the Sheriff's Émployees Benefit Association (SEBA) qualified the charter amendment for the ballot by gathéring enough signatures.

With little comment, the board approved the measure for the ballot, but County Counsel Alan Marks later explained the legal questions that have arisen.

SEBA's petitions covered the future salary increases for all sworn law-enforcement personnel in county government, including

Marks noted that the California constitution stipulates that the state Legislature has authority over compensation for all Municipal Court employees, who include routinely given the county authority for pay increases in the marshal's office, but added that the legal

The county has limited discretion over salaries for the marshal's office employees, he said.

Marks said other questions center on the language of the petitions, which were supposed to put the measure in the form that it will be presented to the voters. He said SEBA failed to do that, but added that these are questions of form and probably not as serious as the constitutional question.

Elementary school has new principal

Andre Sauvageau has at the elementary and been appointed principal of Central School in Rancho Cucamonga effective July Sauvageau was born in Montreal, Canada, and lived there during his early childhood. His family moved to Altadena when he was in third grade. The move required that he learn English since his native language was French.

After receiving his bachelor's degree from California State College, Los Angeles, Sauvageau began his career teaching

... end of the road ...

The final resting place. A solemn end for your four-wheeled headache — the junk-yard. After you receive the check from the insurance company, did you ever wonder what becomes of that complicated piece of machinery? At Ontario's Auto Dismantlers and the Donald Novack Co. the old heap that has seen its last trip to the store gets taken apart and recycled. First, the car is mechanically stripped. Wheels, fenders and the engine are ripped from the body and sold for parts. Then the remaining scrap metal is sold to Novack's, which handles about 4,000 tons each month. The once-shiny, once-stylish automobile bodies are then crushed and shipped to a metal shredder.
